Toys

Nowadays most children have computer games and other mechanical or electric toys. However they also play with the same kinds of toys that children had thousands of years ago.

More than two and a half thousand years ago, for example, children in ancient Greece played with skipping ropes and hoops. They also had spinning tops made of wood, and marbles made of stone or clay. Modern tops are made of plastic, and most marbles nowadays are made of glass, but the games children play with them are the same.

When archaeologists opened the tomb of the Egyptian boy-king Tutankhamen they found some of his toys. They found a boat and a set of draughts. Egyptian children of that time also played with wooden horses on wheels, and with balls made of cloth and reeds.

Many years before the time of Tutankhamen, Chinese children played with yo-yos and dolls made of wood or clay.

Even though many modern toys are complicated and expensive, young children especially enjoy playing with very simple toys. They will probably still be playing with tops, yo-yos and marbles in the year 5000, although they might be playing with them on another planet!
